b. 1994, Thailand

Aphisit Sidsunthia is a Thai contemporary artist, who graduated with a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from Rajamangala University of Technology in 2015, and his Master of Arts Degree in Painting from the Faculty of Painting Sculpture and Graphic Arts, Silpakorn University in 2019. In 2023, he was selected as one of the artists in residence at No Name Studio in Shanghai. He has won The 19th Panasonic Contemporary Painting Contest 2017 and The 18th Panasonic Contemporary Painting Contest 2016.

Sidsunthia's work explores the interplay between visual representation and perception; societal norm and change; handicraft and technology. Much of his work references photographs and random images, representing the visual cultures of different times. Drawing inspiration from those images, his practice includes manipulating those images both manually and digitally by folding, collaging, removing and distorting. Referencing photographs from different time periods allows the overlapping and intersection of different ideologies. While his earlier work depicts a combination of various events in forms of collages, his more recent work usually centers on a singular event. The dimensional complexity then shifts to the lines, colors and planes that are artistically manoeuvred to minimize or maximize certain perceptions. His work invites the audience to question the status quo through the overlaying of weirdly shaped planes, as if they were windows to different realities.
